Subject: Insufficient scope of settlement

To whom it may concern,

I wish to express my concerns about the current antitrust settlement with Microsoft. As I understand it, the current settlement constrains Microsoft's behavior only with regards to so-called "middleware" applications. I believe such behavior must be constrained with regards to any competing products, particularly operating systems. For a good presentations of Microsoft's behavior to suppress competition with competing operating systems, I refer you to the article below, which states the case rather well.
